

Raghu Bukkapatman

Raghu is a Senior Director of Corporate Strategy and Business Development for McKesson Corporation. He is responsible for corporate strategy focused primarily on McKesson Technology Solutions (MTS).

Raghu currently leads numerous projects and initiatives tied to growing MTS in an era of accountable payment and value-based payment. His specific projects focus on efforts to understand the implications of continued consolidation across the industry; streamline care delivery; deliver effective, proactive chronic care management; and advance sustainable financial models for accountable care delivery for all providers. He is also an integral member of many McKesson committees, including those on employee engagement and knowledge management.

Raghu earned both a master's degree in public health and business administration from University of Alabama-Birmingham and a bachelor's degree in Biology and Spanish from Washington University in St. Louis. Before joining McKesson, Raghu was a Senior Director at the Advisory Board, where he held roles focused on general management and product development in the research and technology divisions.

Raghu lives in Atlanta, GA with his wife and two children.
